Die to self?

We as human beings love to have control over every little detail about our lives. Well, guess what, we should not want full control over everything. If I could have complete control over my destiny, it would be a huge mess. Life will throw curveballs at you, and you will not know what to do.

With Christ, those curveballs become easier to manage, and we can let him have complete control over our lives. Now we must not mistake this for no free will, but with Christ everything makes sense. He guides us every day and helps us overcome the hardships that come our way.

In Galatians 2:20, Paul says that is no longer him who lives, but Christ who lives in him. Paul understood that with Christ he could keep moving forward, finding strength in him. Humans tend to give up when times get hard, but Christ helps keep moving forward. He is where we find our strength.
